

1-
8
2-

The Store With a Conscience

There are OVERCOATS here for Men of all types and tastes

All We Ask Is That You Come In and See Our Values

You will be shown marked courtesy by our staff and you will like the way we do business. Our every effort is to give you very best value and service.

Be Sure to See Our $35.00 Overcoats

"The Best Store for Dad and the Boys"

Beggs & Company
Quality First

38-40-42-44 James Street North

Clemenceau Guided By His Father's Precepts

Throughout his long and crowded life the influence of his father's precepts and example has influenced strongly the thought and action of Georges Benjamin Clemenceau, the Premier who led France to victory and then made peace for her most hated of enemies.

He was pressed close to him and whispered, "I will avenge you." "If you would avenge me, work," replied his father.

In 1904, when Clemenceau had been Premier of the interior for six years, he was the most influential politician in the French Cabinet, he was the man to whom the nation looked for guidance.

of August and the last of October, 47 of Germany's finest divisions and people of the famous Prussian line at the Drocourt-Quatrich.

The sermon was delivered by Bro. church, his subject being the demands of comradeship and brotherhood. At the commencement Rev. Melville spoke of the many things we have to be thankful for, just after having passed through the most strenuous war in all history.

LETTS ENVELOPE
BERMOND'S MEN

Allied Fleet Aids by Shell
ing Retreat Lines.

Estonians Gain, but Yudenitch Retreats.

London, Nov. 9. The British press has announced that on the fourth day of their new offensive the Letts have successfully repulsed the force of Col. Yudenitch's army.

The following Letts communication was received from the front: "Our advanced troops have been fighting on all fronts, particularly on the left, where they have been driven back over the River Vistula."

The forces of General Yudenitch have been defeated in the battle of the Vistula. The communication is dated Saturday, November 8, 1919.

One of the largest congregations of the season was at First Methodist Church yesterday afternoon. It was a delightful and impressive service, and brought to the church the largest gathering of Masons which ever assembled in a church in Hamilton.

One of the largest congregations of the season was at First Methodist Church yesterday afternoon. It was a delightful and impressive service, and brought to the church the largest gathering of Masons which ever assembled in a church in Hamilton.

MUSICAL SERVICE
Sacred Song and No Sermon
Last Evening.

One of the largest congregations of the season was at First Methodist Church yesterday afternoon. It was a delightful and impressive service, and brought to the church the largest gathering of Masons which ever assembled in a church in Hamilton.

One of the largest congregations of the season was at First Methodist Church yesterday afternoon. It was a delightful and impressive service, and brought to the church the largest gathering of Masons which ever assembled in a church in Hamilton.

One of the largest congregations of the season was at First Methodist Church yesterday afternoon. It was a delightful and impressive service, and brought to the church the largest gathering of Masons which ever assembled in a church in Hamilton.

One of the largest congregations of the season was at First Methodist Church yesterday afternoon. It was a delightful and impressive service, and brought to the church the largest gathering of Masons which ever assembled in a church in Hamilton.

STREET CAFE STAKE
BY 6 P.M. OF TUESDAY
Federal Court Judge at Indianapolis Orders
Mine Heads to Revoke Call
Lever Fuel Control Act in Force Until Peace
Has Been Proclaimed

Indianapolis, Nov. 9.—Officials of the United Mine Workers of America recall their order for a nationwide strike of bituminous coal miners.

This was ordered Saturday by Judge Albert B. Anderson in Federal Court when he granted the plea of the Government for an injunction directed against execution of the United Mine Workers' organization in an effort to break the strike of 400,000 coal miners.

When asked by Henry Warrum, attorney for the miners, if the operation was not guilty of violation of the Lever Act, inasmuch as they had refused to negotiate a wage scale under which coal could be mined, Judge Anderson replied that he was taking "one case at a time."

As the President had said, the time has come for plain speaking. The organization of the miners is a success. Otherwise there is successful negotiation. And I do not believe the American people have reached the stage where such a course can be followed.

He loved his lands, loved the city. And he was a kind and loving man. Sometimes it was suggested to him that it might need to be considered, counts submitted to him by the firm of Messrs. J. H. & Co., of New York, and reply, "Well, what will you say?" They kept us well in the city, and we were in the city.

He loved his lands, loved the city. And he was a kind and loving man. Sometimes it was suggested to him that it might need to be considered, counts submitted to him by the firm of Messrs. J. H. & Co., of New York, and reply, "Well, what will you say?" They kept us well in the city, and we were in the city.

AN AMBASSADOR A STRIKE AND, A ROYAL WELCOME

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

(1) Earl Grey at Waterloo Station, leaving London for America to serve as the new British Ambassador. Reading left to right, Lord Bryce, Earl Reading, Earl Grey and Lord Curzon

(2) England's Railway Strike. An inspection alone is in charge of many signal heavers.

(3) Billingsgate, the Great London Fish Market. Owing to railway strike, fish had to be brought to market by Government lorries

(4) Lieut.-Col. Sherwood-Kelly, V.C., D.S.O., who volunteered to look after the horses of the S. E. & C. R. at Blackfriars Stables during the strike. He was on friendly terms with the strikers.

(5) M. Paderewski, President of the Polish Republic congratulating airmen who volunteered for service in the Polish Aviation Corps.

(6) England's Great Railway Strike.—Thousands waiting for their train home.

(7) Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig's car used on the western front, sold by auction.

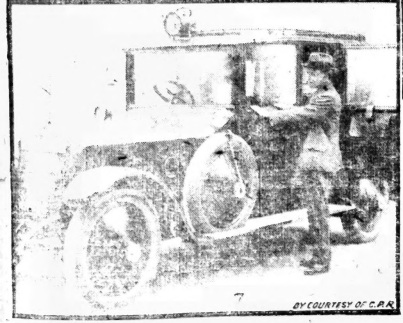

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

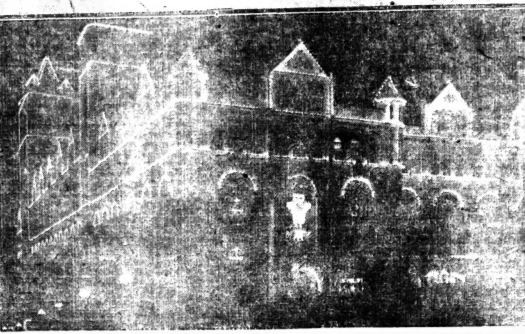

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

WINDSOR STATION ILLUMINATED FOR PRINCE'S VISIT.

The electrical department of the C.P.R. Windsor Station at Montreal in honor of the Royal visit, on which electrical engineers and decorators were at work for over a month, erected since 128 component and Mr. J. W. Bell, the superintendent of the building, who was in charge of the erection of this elaborate decoration, was congratulated on the occasion of his effort. No fewer than 7,752 individual lights were used in this display, which follows the general outlines of the huge edifice, including the two towers. In order to protect the lamps with the seventeen switches, three towers and a number of 20 ft. Prince of Wales' Feathers, which are 13 feet 6 inches in height, were placed on the two maple leaves on St. Antoine street and on the roof of the building. The display consists of 115 lights, while there are 55 lights in each of the two towers and 115 lights in the central decoration is supplemented with a display of 115 lights in the towers, the long streamers 51 feet each in length, and 60 shields each 4 feet high.

PRINCE PRESENTED WITH STRAWBERRIES PICKED ON OCTOBER 2.

If His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales had any preconceived idea that Southern Alberta had grown nothing this year owing to the drought, he probably has reason to change his mind after being presented at Lethbridge with a four-pound box of most luscious strawberries picked on Thursday morning from his own garden by John Harrison, who owns one of the farms on the C. P. R. Ready-made Farms Colony, 18 miles east of the city. The fruit was the ever-bearing variety and as fine in color, texture and flavor as any picked in the middle of the season. It remained for the Canadian Railway to supply the royal table with fresh strawberries picked in Ontario.

[illegible]

NOVEMBER 11TH, 1918

As long as you live, you'll remember that day.

The day the enemy surrendered.

The day our small, but wonderful army had fought for, through four long years of horror and sacrifice. Through mud, cold, indescribable misery, hardship, pain and death, they never turned back. Ever brave, courageous and faithful, they were the spearhead which finally pierced the German army to the heart.

Look back to those anxious days—at Ypres—the Somme—Vimy—Passchendaele—Cambrai. Do you remember how you thrilled as the wires flashed across the seas the Canadians' superhuman exploits and desperate deeds? Do you remember the long columns each day in the papers—the Roll of Honor—each name of which represented a Canadian life snuffed out—or a bandaged form upon a stretcher,—yes, and more—the broken hearts and empty chairs at home?

You said then—"I'll back them up," and you did.

Your Victory Bonds were the weapons with which you helped to win the war. They meant guns, bullets, bombs, aeroplanes, shells, food and clothing to the men who fought. What our soldiers did could never have been accomplished had you not backed them with your money.

Victory Bonds brought these heroes home—and now more Victory Bonds are needed to establish these men again as citizens of the country for which they fought.

Canada must raise money to pay our soldiers' gratuities—in recognition of a service for which they can never be fully repaid.

Canada must raise money to pay the pensions of those thousands who will never recover their full health and vigor.

Canada must raise money to provide medical attention and care for those twenty thousand broken men who still lie in hospital cots.

Canada must raise money to provide for the dependents of those who lie in Flanders' fields.

To-morrow at eleven o'clock, when the wheels throughout the British Empire cease turning for two minutes to commemorate the first anniversary of the armistice which ended the carnage of the war—let your "thought be concentrated in reverent remembrance of the glorious dead."

You said you would back them up. They have finished their work. Your job is not finished until you buy 1919 Victory Bonds.

which he is traveling. He arrived here to-day, will he forced to use crutches for some time.

